Mount Washington Railway A railway to the anomait of Mount Washingon. New Hampshire, is now in course of contruction. The station at the starting point is ,700 feet above the level of the sea, and the and when complete will be two miles and 260. ods long, rising in that instance 3,600 feet to he Tip Top house, which is 6,300 feet above he level of the sea. The average grade of the rack is 1,280 feet to the mile, but in some barts of the line the grade is increased to 1,700 feet to the mile, or one foot in every three.)n this portion of the road the workmen, notwithstanding the sharp spikes in their shors prevent them from failing, could only build 5 feet per day. The trick consists of three rails, the one in the middle being of wrought. ron, with cogs or pins corresponding to cogs the driving wheel. The train consists of the becomptive with a tomber and one passenger car. The locomotive of 35 horse power is built with its boiler suspended, so that it is always level; it weighs four tons, and pasites the train up before it. The driving which is 18 inches in diameter. There is a similar tog wheel on the tender, and another on the passenger car, each strong enough to hold the entire train. Friction rollers, enning order the edges of the middle rail, boldthetraindown aponthetrack. The central rail projects about Live inches on each side beyond the heam on which it is laid. To the focumutive there are attached one steam break an tone hand break, rither of which can stop the train in a moment, and, in assending, a strong, wrought-ron dog works into the cogs of the driving wheel, to provent "back sliding," In descending, the steam is shut off, and the engiane is eased down by using compressed air An experimental trip was recently made on the part of the road already completed, and the logomotive is described as working with a steady motion. There was no jarring or rocking, but merely a slight trendling, like that of a steamer under the stroke of its engines. The ascent from the starting point to the second station, 5,370 feet above the level of the sea, was acceptable complished in one hour and 20 minutes, includug two stoppages for water. The descent.

INCONSISTENT MORALITY.—A distinguished divine remarked lately that " some men will not share on Sunday, and yet they spend all the work in chaving their fellow-men; and many folks think it very wicked to black their boots on Sanday morning, yet they do not hesitate to black their neighbours reputation on week.

Krupp's great guas, in which prismatic powder was used with great effect. According to the military weekly journal, Krupp's empty shells proved superior to Palliser shells from the Woolwich gun, as they passed through the eight inch plate, and came out quite whole on the other side. The same paper says that i the shell is burst by the charge, the effect is much greater than if it is broken to pieces by the concussion in passing through the plate. ie CANADA.—The conflictations in the Canadian forests confinite, and the lamage along the Upper Ottawa and Gittineau rivers has been inamense.
